TUTORIAL:

Linked from the Library home page is an extensive Tutorial on using your TROY Library services. While the guide you are now reading provides a brief overview of selected resources, the online tutorial includes detailed presentations regarding topics such as:

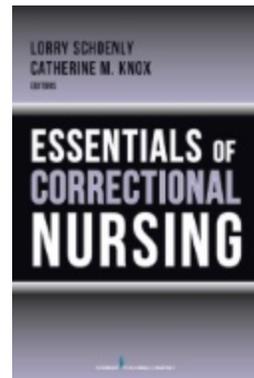

- Using book and journal databases
- Evaluating information sources (books, journals, Web sites, etc.)
- Plagiarism (how students can avoid plagiarizing and how faculty can deter and detect acts of plagiarism)

II. INTERLIBRARY LOAN (ILL)

Books and journal articles that are not available online or at your local library may be requested through Interlibrary Loan (ILL). Interlibrary Loan is a service that allows you to borrow books and photocopies of journal articles. Look for the “Interlibrary Loan (ILL)” link on the library home page.

For guidance on using Interlibrary Loan, the Library provides a LibGuide (online library guide). A link to the Library’s LibGuides is provided on the Library home page

Interlibrary Loan Information

What is Interlibrary Loan services (ILL)?

It is a service offered by the Troy University Library system that provides materials such as books and articles that are not available in the library and may be requested for loan from other libraries. Current students, staff, and faculty are eligible to request ILLs

What is ILLiad?

Troy University uses an automated, paperless system called ILLiad that makes submitting and tracking interlibrary loan requests easier and more efficient. Users can use advance features such as checking the status of any items currently requested, reviewing ILL history, renewing items with upcoming due dates, canceling requests, and receiving notifications and documents electronically. Best of all, ILLiad can be accessed on-campus or anywhere else with an Internet connection through our Interlibrary Loan

III. JOURNALS

JOURNAL DATABASES

Access to TROY's journal databases is by username and password (your TROY email username/password). Journal databases allow you to look up journal articles on a given topic. Depending on your topic, you may want to use a database whose content is geared toward fields such as nursing, health, medicine, psychology, and more. The database listings on the first page of this guide can assist you in selecting appropriate databases.

Journal databases can be searched individually or they can be searched in combination with the Library's eBook databases and Library Catalog by means the Search Library Resources search box that appears on the Library home page. To learn more about Search Library Resources, see section V of this guide.

Online databases are linked from Library home page. The Databases page displays databases alphabetically, A to Z. The subject menu (on the left side of the screen), e.g., Health & Medicine, can be used to display databases by subject.

The CINAHL Complete database is one of the core resources for researching nursing topics. CINAHL is an acronym for Cumulative Index to Nursing and Allied Health Literature.

Other nursing/health/medical databases include those listed on the cover page of this guide.

Section V of this guide features information on searching multiple databases simultaneously.

CITATION LINKER (a powerful tool for locating the full text of journal articles)

Citation Linker is the name of a very special online tool; one that can be used to find out in which database a particular journal can be found. Not all journals are available online—that is where the Library’s Interlibrary Loan (ILL) service comes in—but Citation Linker can help you locate those journals that are online. Citation Linker is linked on the Library home page.

IV. BOOKS

LIBRARY CATALOG

The Library Catalog can be used to look up print and electronic books owned by TROY. To use the catalog, enter your search terms in the search box and select the appropriate search category (e.g., author, title, or subject).

Electronic books (eBooks) that are listed in the catalog can be accessed via the Library's eBooks databases (discussed on the next page).

Word or phrase search. This is the default setting for searching the catalog and can be a good way to get started. A word or phrase search will match words you enter with words from a book's author, title, or subject headings the book is listed under.

Author search. When looking for the writings of an individual, search by author. Enter the name, last name first, then select author search.

Title search. To search for works by their title, use title search.

Subject search. When searching for information about a specific topic, select subject search (a word or phrase search also works well).

When using the library catalog your best bet is often to start with a small number of key words (even just one word), performing a "word or phrase" search. To get ideas on words to search, one can search for potential subject terms via this Library of Congress Classification (LCC) service <http://id.loc.gov/authorities/subjects.html>. (Materials in the TROY Libraries are organized according to LCC.)

EBOOKS (ELECTRONIC BOOKS)

Access to TROY's eBook databases is by username and password (your TROY email username and password). These information search tools can be accessed through the Library's online databases, which are linked from each of the Library home page.

eBook Collection is a large, general database of full-text academic (and non-academic) books, containing over 50,000 titles.

Let's do a quick show-and-tell in the eBook Collection database. From the Library home page, select Databases. Databases are listed alphabetically on the databases page. Scroll down the page to locate the desired database. Instead of scrolling down, you can click on the appropriate letter of the alphabet, in this case, E, from the A to Z menu at the top of the page, to jump down the page. Click on the name of the database, eBook Collection, to log in.

Example picture 1 – a key word search (from the Basic Search screen in eBook Collection) using the terms nursing and career.

On the left side, there is a sidebar with a "132 Results for..." indicator and a "Refine your results" section with a "Full Text" checkbox. At the top of the results area, there is a pagination bar showing "Page: 1 2 3 4 5 Next".

The first search result is listed as:

1. Book
Jacket
eBook
Advancing Your Career : Concepts of Professional Nursing
Kearney-Nunnery, Rose. 4th ed. F.A. Davis Company. 2008. eBook. 477p.
Subjects: MEDICAL / Nursing / Management & Leadership; MEDICAL / Nursing / Nursing guidance--United States; Nursing--Philosophy; Career development; Nursing; Career

V. SEARCHING MULTIPLE RESOURCES SIMULTANEOUSLY

DATABASES

Often times you will want to target your research by using a specific database, the Library Catalog, or other online resources, individually. It is a good idea to familiarize yourself with individual resources, e.g., the CINAHL Complete database—the nature of the information it contains and the way it works.

Some of the Library's database providers (the vendors from which the Library purchases these services) allow you to search more than one database (from that provider) simultaneously. For example, if researching a psychological topic, one could search these databases at the same time: Academic Search Complete, PsycArticles, PsycBooks, PsycInfo.

In addition to searching multiple databases from a particular vendor, there is the SEARCH LIBRARY RESOURCES box on the Library home page. This interface allows you to search the Library Catalog and nearly all of the Library's book and journal databases simultaneously.

The following information concerns:

Databases from the Ebsco company

Databases from the ProQuest company

The (almost) all-in-one research tool, Search Library Resources

Databases from the EBSCO company

To search any or all of the following databases at the same time, log in to any one of them (any one) and then click the choose databases link. That will allow you to select additional databases to search.

Databases from the Ebsco company that are most relevant to nursing research:

Academic Search Complete,
AHFS Consumer Medication Information
CINAHL Complete
HaPI (Health and Psychosocial Instruments)

Health Source: Consumer Edition and Nursing and Academic Edition
PsycArticles
PsycBooks
PsycInfo
SPORTDiscus with Full Text

Databases from the ProQuest company

There are two ways to search multiple databases from the ProQuest company. The first step is the same for each way; log in to the database named ProQuest Central.

If you search the ProQuest Central database you will be searching all of the ProQuest databases the Library has access to—those in the field of nursing as well as those for art, music, literature, business, etc. This can be a good way to search, but it may provide too much irrelevant data.

When you log in to the ProQuest Central database, ProQuest will offer to let you search several subject collections of database (pictured below). If you select “Health & Medicine,” it will search all of the following databases at the same time:

CBCA Complete: Health & Medicine
Pharmaceutical News Index
ProQuest Career and Technical Education: Health & Medicine
ProQuest Family Health
ProQuest Health & Medical Complete
ProQuest Health Management
ProQuest Nursing & Allied Health Source
ProQuest Research Library: Health & Medicine

SEARCH LIBRARY RESOURCES

The Search Libraries Resources tool gives you the ability to search the Library Catalog and the library databases simultaneously.

The basics of how to use Search Libraries Resources.

The Search Libraries Resources box is located at the top of the Library home page. Instead of one-stop-researching, think of it as one-start-researching . . . a way to begin (and then limit) your search.

To begin, simply put in your terms and do the search:

SEARCH LIBRARY RESOURCES

ALL || Catalog || Databases

More search options

After you get the results list, look to the left side menu in order to tailor the results to your information needs. The following is a quick look at some of the choices.

Items with full text online: Means you can access the materials immediately.

Limit to articles from peer-reviewed publications: This will do two things; the nature of the information shown will be journal articles (only), and the articles will be from journals that are peer-reviewed (refereed).

Library location: If you want the materials to be online/electronic, use the “Items with full text online,” limiter, as shown above. When you need to get your hands on a print (physical) book or article, then you can use a limiter such as “Montgomery – Circulating materials,” as shown to the right.

Refine your search

- Items with full text online
- Limit to articles from scholarly publications, including peer-review
- Limit to articles from peer-reviewed publications
- Exclude Newspaper Articles
- Add results beyond your library's collection

▼ Library Location

- Any
- Troy - Circulating materials (16,841)
- Dothan - Circulating materials (6,642)
- Montgomery - Circulating materials (3,687)
- Troy - Electronic materials (2,116)
- Montgomery - Electronic materials (1,767)
- Dothan - Electronic materials (1,760)

Content type: Be careful using this limiter (shown below, left). If you are only truly interested in journal articles, then it is probably fine to use the “Journal Article” check box, but before you choose a different limiter, especially “Book / eBook,” we suggest clicking the “more...” link to see all of your choices (partial list shown below). Because they are so numerous, by default, newspaper articles are excluded from search results. If you desire to see articles from newspapers, you will need to uncheck that limiter.

Subject terms: Take advantage of the power of the search interface to build your search. For example, the search on the term heart surgery yielded more than 300,000 results. By checking the “pediatrics” limiter, the search is narrowed to one aspect of heart surgery. You may not always want to use this type of limiter, but it is good to know it is available.

VI. WRITING

THE WRITING CENTER

The Writing Center's online address is <http://trojan.troy.edu/writingcenter/>. The Writing Center has guides for Research/Documentation, Special Kinds of Writing, Grammar/Mechanics, and The Writing Process.

DOCUMENTATION

It is vital that students use the documentation style prescribed by his or her instructor. Online guides are not a substitute for the actual (printed) publication manual which can be purchased at book stores. The Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (6th edition) is the style guide used by the Troy University Nursing programs. When preparing documentation for a research paper, you should NEVER trust that an automated system will format the documentation correctly. You should always use the correct style manual to check your work. If you desire assistance, check with your instructor. Make use of resources such as the TROY Writing Center.

One resource that you may find useful is the publication Citing the World Wide Web in Style. This guide assists you in the preparation of references to material you obtain from databases such as those provide by TROY. This publication is available online in the Information and Help section of the Library Web site. Additional guides in that same area include:

- APA-style Running Head and Page Numbers: Using Microsoft Word to Format Your Paper
- Hanging Indents: Using Microsoft Word to Format Your Documentation
- Tips and Tricks for Microsoft Word
